

God's Patient Call

This painting of Jonah in the Sistine Chapel is directly above The Last Judgment. Michelangelo chooses to depict Jonah for his theological connection to Jesus, who said, “Just as Jonah was in the belly of the whale three days and three nights, so will the Son of Man be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights” (Matthew 18:40).

Unlike Jesus, Jonah initially balks at God's call until he grudgingly accepts and preaches to the city of Nineveh. In his rebellion, he gets in a boat and goes the opposite direction from where God was calling. Eventually he was thrown overboard and swallowed by the fish, seen painted at his side. After a three-night stomachache, the fish spewed Jonah up on the shore, back where he had started.

Jonah looks up to heaven with a weary longing, which might denote his melancholy personality. The fig tree further reinforces his weakness because it recalls the episode when Jonah lay under the fig tree in depression and lethargy.

Piece: The Prophet Jonah, circa 1508-1512

Artist: Michelangelo

Location: Sistine Chapel ceiling

Like Peter and Andrew, James and John, God entered Jonah's life and called him. Unlike the apostles, it took him a while to say yes. We can also be slow to respond to the invitation of God in our soul, whether in big or small things. Perhaps the attraction of the world or fear of sacrifice keeps us from saying yes. Yet his voice is constant and persistent.

Michelangelo paints Jonah dangling above The Last Judgment as if to subtly say, you are cordially invited to say yes to God's patient callings...while you still have time.

For Reflection

Do I understand that putting off the voice of God is also putting off all the good, joy, and peace he wants to bring about by what he is asking?

*Jesus said to them, “Come after me, and I will make you fishers of men.”
Then they abandoned their nets and followed him.

Poco a Poco From the Desk of Fr. Terry...

Thanks to all who made Fr. Lewis Villareal and Fr. Leibrecht feel so welcome, while I was away.

FYI: Due to illness, there was no Mass on Monday, January 15. My apologies for any inconvenience this may have caused.

The mission trip to El Salvador was very enlightening, uplifting and productive. There were 14 of us who spent this week building homes of the local village, spending time at the local community center with the children, playing UNO, putting together puzzles and coloring (inside and outline the lines). The wind-chill for the week was about 72° F. There was no air conditioning and no hot water. Believe it or not, the trip was most enjoyable. We visited the Cathedral at San Salvador, visited the grave of Archbishop Oscar Romero and saw where he lived prior to his death in March of 1980. We also visited the Rose Garden dedicated to the Jesuits who were killed in 1989 during the 12 year civil war. Each time I visit El Salvador, I am amazed at the resilience of the people who have very little, the gratitude they have for us when we visit and the brightness of the colors in the flowers, the clothes and the music that the people of El Salvador share so freely. There was never an issue on the question of safety. The handmaids of the Sacred Heart Sisters do a great job in providing such a wonderful experience to learn more about this project. Visit www.acjusa.org Project FAIT-Fatih in action together.

Enjoy your week.....Fr. Terry
