

The Source of All Forgiveness

In his 1622 painting The Penitent St. Mary Magdalene, Giovanni Francesco Barbieri, known as Guercino, portrays Mary Magdalene with shoulders uncovered and disheveled hair. These details remind us of her shameful past without defining her present. Rather, it is her humble, penitent spirit from which her heroic love for Jesus springs. The sinful Mary, who had been forgiven so much, is also one who has loved much.

One angel holds out before her the symbols of the passion to remind Magdalene of the ransom her Beloved paid to set her free from sin. A second angel pointing to heaven reminds her that these nails no longer bind him. Or as the angel would tell Mary Magdalene in the garden, "He is not here, he has risen."

Many mistakenly conflate Mary Magdalene with the unknown woman from Luke 7:36-50. The woman offers an act of humility by breaking into the dinner party of Simon and sobbing over the feet of Jesus. She bathes his feet with tears of repentance and dries them with her lovely hair. Despite the confusion, we admire this woman's and Mary's humility. Neither were too proud to repent.

The painting is called The Penitent St. Mary Magdalene because Mary looks purposely like a person kneeling in confession. Speaking with head downcast, she admits her failures. And as in confession, the representative of God sits on the other side encouraging her to consider Jesus' passion, love, and mercy. The angel in the center reminds Mary to whom she is really confessing. By pointing to heaven we are all reminded of the source from whom all forgiveness comes.

For Reflection

Am I humble enough to admit my faults to myself and others?

How often do I ask forgiveness from my loved ones and in confession?

*His heart was moved with pity for them,
for they were like sheep without a shepherd.*

Note from Fr. Steve:

An old Seminary schoolmate of mine, Fr Kevin Schmittgens from St Francis Borgia parish and High School, will be taking care of our weekend Sacramental needs July 28th and 29th, as I am taking a week and a half off from July 26th through August 3rd. On the weekdays, Deacon Paul will be leading Communion Services at 8 a.m., except for Thursday and Friday July 26th and 27th when he is also away. There are no morning Church services on those two days.

I had a blast at the Tractor and Truck pull! So did our visitor friends from Florissant--my last parish, Saint Rose--who came to support our school. I have been to one pull before but it was their first, and needless to say, it blew their minds...and their ears! Our dearest thanks from our whole Church community to so many people who worked like the dickens on the set up, the cleanup, and the event. We see there how real Church happens, always grounded in the Eucharistic worship, and then moving out those doors into such hard work. Thanks be to God for gifting us in the Spirit to be CHURCH!
Love and blessings!
Father Steve

Dear Padre,

My daughter will make her first confession soon. She seems too young to have sinned in any serious way. What is the point of making a child anxious about such things?

Confession, or the sacrament of penance, is not meant to make anyone anxious. In fact, its purpose is just the opposite.

This sacrament provides us the opportunity to reflect on our failures toward God and other people, to express sorrow for those failures, and to be assured of God's forgiveness for them. We shouldn't be too hasty in assuming that young children are unaware of wrongdoing and the need to say, "I'm sorry." Even very young children can be deliberately mean, cruel, or selfish.

Before children experience the sacrament of reconciliation for the first time, they should be able to distinguish between deliberate and accidental actions. (Breaking a plate may be an accident; breaking it over your brother's head is probably deliberate.) They should also be able to express their faults in their own words, and they should have some understanding that their sins affect their relationship with God, who loves them unconditionally but is hurt by their wrong decisions and actions.

In general, children are able to fulfill these conditions between the ages of seven and eight. If a child's moral awareness develops more slowly, parents can request that the reception of the sacrament be postponed.

A Word From Pope Francis

The family is where we daily experience our own limits and those of others....The family, where we keep loving one another despite our limits and sins, thus becomes a school of forgiveness. Forgiveness is itself a process of communication.

When contrition is expressed and accepted, it becomes possible to restore and rebuild the communication which broke down.
