

Is Christ Divided?

"You're breaking the back of the body of Christ!" Saint Paul might have said this to members of the Corinthian community who rival each other, claiming that the leader who baptized them is greater than the one who baptized others: "I belong to Paul...I belong to Apollos...I belong to Cephas" (1 Corinthians 1:12). This suggests that, based on their baptizer, the members themselves are superior. Such rivalry sounds so petty. We should be careful here, because some of this rivalry still exists in the Church.

In any healthy group there will be diverse opinions. We all have our own tastes, preferences, cultural habits, and so on. This is true in church music, preaching style, and religious devotion. The uniformity of the Church prior to the Second Vatican Council has given way to great diversity. What is different is not necessarily bad. Nor is our preference necessarily superior. Such diversity need not pit us against each other, but sometimes it does. Is Christ divided over points of preference?

We are all part of the body of Christ; we are all God's beloved. The diversity among us challenges us to work toward the common good, to "be united in the same mind and in the same purpose" (1 Corinthians 1:10). Let us not divide Christ.

—Sr. Dianne Bergant, CSA

FOR Reflection

- ★ How do you act toward someone who understands faith differently? Do you respect their viewpoint or automatically ignore them?
- ★ Which religious voices do you listen to? Why?

From that time on, Jesus began to preach and say, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

Pastor's Letter to the People of St. Ignatius

Okay, the "Missionary" made a liar of me last week and said he was NOT a Missionary, but a beggar! And oh my, did you ever step up and respond to his call for help?! Father Dave Delish's honesty about what he was not, because 'he just has a job of going to parishes for Food for the Poor and begging for help to feed the hungry,'... sounds like missionary work to me. How about you? Well now, in the spirit of Father Dave's humility, I will not call him or me missionaries, even though we are priests on a mission to you every Sunday. Rather I say, all of you are the missionaries, because you responded to that humble priest last week when he called you to serve people who are far away, with your prayers and donations. Through you, the Holy Spirit reached out to another place and You gave a second Christmas to some people who are hungry and fulfilled what we heard again from Isaiah this weekend. "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light." If you remember hearing that at Christmas time, you're right. But you did make a second Christmas with your response to Father Dave. For those who are hungry, and not knowing where the next meal is coming from, that is being 'in the dark.' You just gave them some light! We hear Jesus just getting started on His mission, calling his disciples from the fishing nets this weekend. No less is he calling you. I missed you when I was away last week. I continue to be humbled and filled with joy that I get to be a priest for such a missioning people.

Blessings on your mission this week. Father Steve

Dear Padre,

What are deacons' duties? Can they preside at wedding ceremonies? What about baptisms and other duties usually reserved for priests?

The Catholic Church has two kinds of deacons: transitional deacons, seminarians in the last stage of their studies for the priesthood, and permanent deacons, men who will remain deacons.

Transitional and permanent deacons can baptize, give homilies at Mass, give blessings (for example, the blessing of throats on St. Blaise's feast day), perform the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, and preside at wedding and funeral services where there is no Mass.

Neither type of deacon can administer the sacrament of reconciliation. They can visit and bless the sick, but they cannot anoint them. Deacons can distribute holy Communion, but they cannot consecrate the bread and wine.

Unlike transitional deacons, permanent deacons can be married. If a deacon's wife dies, he may not remarry except in certain circumstances, for example, if his children are still very young. Unmarried permanent deacons must remain unmarried.

Deacons are vital to the life of the Church. Many permanent deacons have families and full-time jobs in addition to their Church work. We don't thank deacons and their families enough for the many sacrifices they make for the people of God.

It deeply troubles me when I see a timetable in a parish: "From such a time to such a time." ...Don't worry about the timetable: have the courage to look past the timetable. In this way, dear deacons, if you show that you are available to others, your ministry will not be self-serving, but evangelically fruitful.
